

Core description – logging

In the laboratory, there is a dedicated room for core description (logging). Spacious height-adjustable desks with several integrated monitors accommodate that several people can use the room at the same time and obtain digital support data from X-rays and core logging (MSCL) on the screen.

Photo: Kai Mortensen